HUNDREDS DEAD, THOUSANDS INJURED IN U.S. EARTHQUAKE

SPECTACULAR FIRE IN CITY LAST NIGHT

Powell's Building
Gutted.

FIRE BRIGADE CHECKS
FLAMES SPREADING.

A greater part of Powell's Building, occupied by offices and the Hong Kong Electric Company's store and workshop, was gutted by fire shortly after 8 p.m. last night. The damage has not yet been assessed but it is expected to reach a considerable figure.

The call was received at the Central Fire Station at 8.10 and eight engines were quickly on the scene, but the flames spread through the building, which is largely a wooden structure, with alarming rapidity, and in less than an hour, almost the entire roof had collapsed, and the first floor of two storey structure was doomed.

Only the splendid work of the Fire Brigade saved the other parts of the building and adjoining premises. Jets of water were played on the flames from the premises of Messrs. Lane, Crawford and the upper floors and fire escape of Exchange Building, while another hose was operated from the roof of the St. Francis Hotel, the rear of which adjoining the burning block.

Two lines of hose were taken inside the burning building on the first floor, where firemen had to work almost in darkness before the arrival of acetylene lamps. Fallacious beams and heavy pieces of falling masonry made the work extremely hazardous, and on more than one occasion the firemen had to heat a hasty retreat to avoid the burning debris.

FRIGHTFUL HORROR IN CALIFORNIA

FIRE AND TIDAL WAVE ADD TO TERROR AND HAVOC

Los Angeles, Yesterday.

Hundreds are dead and thousands injured, and thousands of buildings have been demolished by the violent earthquake shocks which rocked the Pacific seaboard of the State of California, United States on Friday night. Fierce fires are raging in the stricken area, and a huge tidal wave which swept the coast line from Santa Barbara to San Diego added to the horrors of the disaster.

The first tremor was felt at 5.55 p.m. (Pacific Standard Time 10.50 a.m., Saturday, Hong Kong Time) and was followed by further shocks at 9.15 p.m., the last tremors being more severe than the first.

Long Beach, the fashionable resort of film stars, was suffered severely, 62,000 buildings in the city being wrecked, while fire threatens to wipe out the remainder. Hundreds are reported killed, and the United States battle fleet, which was harbouring at Los Angeles, has rushed marines to the scene. The number of injured there is estimated at 1,500.

Messages from San Francisco and San Diego state that the death toll at Long Beach so far is 500, and that the whole district is blazing fiercely. The glow of the fire can be seen for many miles.

Interrupted communication with the city, which is feared to be the centre of the quake, has delayed official information.

Inland Town Wrecked.

Twelve people are known to be dead in the inland town of Compton, where practically every business building has been wrecked or badly damaged.

Along the river side at Santa Anna, where the shocks are said to have been the most severe in ten years, three people were killed and many injured, while a number of buildings in the town have been destroyed.

San Pedro fared badly. The Carnegie Library was wrecked and churches damaged, and it is reported that 200 employees of the Edison Company were caught in the collapse of the power plant at Terminal Island.

Los Angeles escaped more lightly, two deaths being reported from the city, although several buildings are on fire. Mrs. Hoover, wife of the former President of the United States was staying in the city at the time of the quake, and Mr. Herbert Hoover is trying to get into touch with her.

Film Stars Escape.

Only minor damage was done to the homes of the film stars at Hollywood and Beverly Hills and no casualties have so far been reported. In the district between Los Angeles and the harbour, innumerable fires are raging. At Watts, three people were killed when the police station collapsed, while several deaths are reported from San Pedro. Part of the Palms Verde Hills near Redondo Beach have slid down.

Government Assistance.

President Roosevelt has extended Government facilities to relieve the distress and many ex-Servicemen have been summoned for emergency duty. A continual stream of ambulances are bearing the injured to the hospitals, which are already

MARTIAL LAW AT LONG BEACH

Los Angeles, Yesterday.

The fifteenth and sixteenth violent shocks were felt at 12.55 a.m. and 1.11 a.m., Pacific Time.

Martial Law has been proclaimed at Long Beach where residents are camped in the open amid the ruins of their homes, while 10,000 sailors are patrolling the town.

Los Angeles hospital is estimated to have received 6,000 injured, and casualties are arriving hourly.

Mindful of the previous experiences of the Japanese hundreds after the earthquake on March 3, anticipating a tidal wave, fled from Terminal Island, near Long Beach, carrying armfuls of blankets and household goods, and safely reached the foot-hills, where they slept in comfort.

The police deny that a tidal wave struck Long Beach.

An aviator who returned to Kanawha City, sent a wire's message describing the widespread fires and ruins in the Los Angeles area, and what appeared to be the bodies of victims piled in heaps at Long Beach.

Petrol stations burst into flames and fires have occurred among the oil tanks at Los Angeles, San Pedro, Long Beach and Wilmington.

overcrowded, and fire appliances are working desperately to control the menacing flames.

Early reports state that the first tremors lasted for several minutes in a north to south motion. Five shocks followed the first one at four and five minute intervals, half an hour later. Shocks which followed at 8.40 p.m. and 9.15 p.m. were equally severe.

In addition to the cities from which reports have been received, it is stated that the quake was felt with similar intensity at Pasadena, Santa Barbara, Glendale, San Bernardino, San Diego, San Jacinto, Hemet and San Pedro.

JUNE WAR DEBT INSTALMENT PAYABLE IN SILVER?

United States Proposal For Facility to Britain.

Washington, Yesterday.
A Bill authorizing the President of the United States, Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt, $100,000,000 worth of silver from Britain in payment of the June instalment on the war debt, at market price, provided it does not exceed 45 cents per ounce, has been introduced into the Senate by Senator Pittman.—Reuter.

HITLER'S PLEDGE FORGOTTEN
BY FOLLOWERS.

(Reuter's Special Service.)
Berlin, Yesterday.

Chancellor Adolf Hitler's official assurance that Jewish lives and property will be respected has been forgotten by the "Brown Shirts" in their frenzy to humiliate their political opponents. They are tormenting Communists and Jews alike.

The plight of the Jews is described as most pitiable. Shopkeepers are forced by the authorities to remain open and they are then raided by hooligans.

In some cases, homes and synagogues have been wrecked and families, terror-stricken are sleeping together for common protection.

Jewish children are particularly unhappy. They are mocked spat upon in the streets and in the schools from which they are forbidden by law to absent themselves.

Adelaide, Yesterday.
After being 240 for 4 the M.C.C. collapsed sensationally this morning when they were dismissed for 238 to which Leslie Ames contributed an invaluable 63.

South Australia were dismissed for 191 and the M.C.C. held a lead of 114 with all their second innings wickets in hand at the close of play. Victor Richardson, the South Australian skipper, was dismissed for a "duck," his third in succession against the tourists. He registered a pair of spectacles in the fifth and final Test at Sydney.

IN PEIPING

Remarkable Change
As Chang Leaves.

NANKING STILL URGES
RESISTANCE.

Peiping, Yesterday.
No visitor to Peiping would this morning be conscious that the city has just experienced a remarkable change-over. The city is very quiet and normal.

It seems certain that Marshal Chang Hsueh-ling has already departed by aeroplane for the south and none of his staff is available now.

General Ho Ying-ching's taking-over could not have been more quiet. It is understood that he has taken up residence at the former Presidential Palace where he will probably establish his headquarters.

Nanking Confidence.

CHINESE PRESS SILENT
ON PEIPING SITUATION

Nanking, Yesterday.
The Chinese press here this morning did not publish reports that Marshal Chang Hsueh-ling's resignation had been accepted and that Marshal Chiang Kai-shek is in supreme command of the military situation in North-China.

The above news is being withheld from publication, therefore, the local press is silent on the latest developments in North-China.

Private circles, however, in a position to know the developments there, generally express satisfaction at Chiang Kai-shek's decision. They believe his action indicates that he has the North-China situation well under control, otherwise, Chiang Kai-shek would not have taken such a drastic step.

The opinion is generally expressed that the Chinese Government at present is determined to throw the entire nation's energy and resources to resist further Japanese invasion into Hopei.—Reuter.

JAPANESE AND GERMAN MILITARISM

Disarmament Fears At Washington.

U.S. WILL KEEP PEACE
IF NECESSARY.

(Reuter's Special Service.)
Washington, Yesterday.

It is understood that the Far Eastern and German situations figured extensively in the conference between President Roosevelt, Senator Cordell Hull and Mr. Norman Davis, America's Geneva delegate, on Friday evening.

United States officials feel that the success or failure of world disarmament for the present is approaching a crisis.

They are alarmed at the indications that Germany may re-arm and the prospect of Japan increasing her forces.

It is understood that President Roosevelt and his administration assume the attitude that if other nations increase armaments instead of reducing them it will be necessary for America to do likewise.

NO PENETRATION WILL BE MADE
BEYOND THE GREAT WALL.

PEKING, YESTERDAY.

THE JAPANESE HERE OFFICIALLY ANNOUNCE THE CAPTURE OF KUPEIKOW AND HSIFENGKOW. THE ANNOUNCEMENT STATES THAT THE JAPANESE TROOPS WILL NOT COME BEYOND THE GREAT WALL TOWARDS PEKING BUT WILL REMAIN AT THE PASS.

The Chinese admit the fall of Hsifengkow and Kupeikow. The flag of the Rising Sun now flies above all the passes across the Great Wall. The Chinese troops who have been holding Kupeikow have retreated to Miyun, 20 miles South.

It is believed the war is over, unless General Chiang Kai-shek launches an offensive, which it is considered would be suicidal.—Reuter.

Peace Or War In North China.

JAPANESE ATTEMPT AT CONCILIATION.

Tokyo, Yesterday.
"The question of peace or war in North China hangs in the balance," declared a War Office spokesman, commenting on the massing of Chinese troops in North China and the Japanese attempt to persuade Peking to withdraw them.

The Japanese do not want to extend their operations in North China, the spokesman emphasized, but declared that they were ready to despatch reinforcements to Peking, Tientsin, Shanhai-kuan, or anywhere else, if Chiang Kai-shek really attempts to wrest back Jehol.—Reuter.

Japanese Plan For Neutral Zone.

CHIANG KAI-SHEK WARNED.

(Reuter's Special Service.)
Tokyo, Later.

Regarding the suggested creation of a neutral zone, the spokesman pointed out that the Chinese had rejected the original proposal made before the commencement of the Jehol operations, for a zone on both sides of the Great Wall.

Consequently, as the Japanese forces now occupy the north side of the Wall, the present proposal envisages a zone on the south side only.

The spokesman appeared hopeful that the Chinese would agree, but reiterated that if Marshal Chiang Kai-shek continues to mass troops in North China with the declared intention of attempting to recover Jehol, the Japanese would consider themselves at liberty to take whatever steps were necessary to disperse them for the purpose of removing the threat.

Yen To Meet Chiang At Shihkiachuang.

Taiyuan, Yesterday.
General Yen Hsi-shan has received invitation to see General Chiang Kai-shek and confer with him at Shihkiachuang which place he is expected to reach to-day.

General Hsu Yung-chang, Chairman of the Shanxi Provincial Government is already at Shihkiachuang and it is persistently reported from Taiyuan that General Feng Yu-hsiang has also decided to visit General Chiang Kai-shek.—Reuter.

ASSURANCE TO BRITISH AMBASSADOR

Tokyo, Yesterday.
Visiting the Vice-Minister for Foreign Affairs this morning, Sir Francis Lindley, British Ambassador to Tokyo, is understood to have received the assurance that the Japanese troops have no intention of entering North China unless the Chinese compel them to do so.—Reuter.

Chang's Departure
Welcomed.

PEKING PRESS URGE REAL RESISTANCE.

(Reuter's Special Service.)
Peiping, Yesterday.

The vernacular press comment on the change-over at Peiping appears in only a few papers, but where it does appear, it welcomes the change.

One paper says that it hopes that in future there will not be a Commander here who tries to shift the responsibility by pleading that he cannot take the initiative because the local authorities and the local authorities trusted the Central Government.

The paper states:—never since September, 1931 has the anti-Japanese situation taken such a promising turn.

It expresses a hope that General Ho Ying-ching will take active steps to execute an effective plan for resistance.

Chang's Troops Handed

Peiping, Yesterday.
The sixteen Brigades which Marshal Chang Hsueh-ling hands over to the Central Government are stationed as follows:—

Admiral Sir Frederick Charles Dreyer, K.C.B., C.B.E., who arrived here on Thursday to relieve Admiral Sir William Archibald Howard Kelly, K.C.B., C.M.G., M.V.O., as Commander-in-Chief of the China Station, hoisted his flag on H. M. S. Suffolk at 8 a.m. yesterday.

The Suffolk saluted Admiral Kelly's flag flown by the Kent with seventeen guns and the Kent replied with a similar salute.

Admiral Dreyer boarded the Kent at 9.30 yesterday morning where he was received by the guard. He was then introduced to his officers.

At ten o'clock Admiral Kelly visited the lower-deck and made a farewell address to his men, and later took leave of his officers.

Leaving the Kent he proceeded by car to Queen's Pier where he inspected a military guard of honour and then embarked in the Green Barge for the Corfu. At noon when the Corfu left port, the Army fired a salute.

Commodore E. McC. Wyndham Lawrie called on Admiral Dreyer at 10.45 a.m., followed shortly after by Major General O. C. Barrett, G.O.C. China Command.

Later Admiral Dreyer called on His Excellency the Governor, Sir William Peel, K.B.E., K.C.M.G., and returned the calls of the G.O.C. and Commodore.

At 12.30 His Excellency the Governor returned Admiral Dreyer's call in the Kent.

The following compose Admiral Dreyer's staff:—

Capt. A. U. Willis, D.S.O., will command the Kent and also act as Flag Captain. He will relieve Capt. Drew.

Capt. G. P. Thompson, O.B.E., (Commodore, 2nd Class), Comdr. D. N. C. Tufnell, D.S.C. (Staff Officer, Intelligence), Albat, Lieut. Comdr. F. B. Tours (Flag Lieutenant), Pay. Comdr. H. M. Horne (Secretary), Pay. Lieut. Mannin, F.R., Pay. Lieutenant M. A. McMullen, Major C. T. Brown, O.B.E., R.M.

Light Dues Increased

Foreign Vessels To Pay Fees.

Notification is made in the Hong Kong Government Gazette that the Ordinance governing light dues has been rescinded and the following substituted:

1.—All ships, other than river steamers, which enter the waters of the Colony, except British and foreign ships of war and all vessels of less than 20 tons, shall pay the following dues, viz:—

Two and four-tenths cents per ton.

2.—Such dues shall be paid at the Harbour Master's office at the time of entry.

3.—All river steamers which enter the waters of the Colony by day or by night, shall pay nine-tenths of a cent per ton.

4.—Upon the ascertainment of the amount, in dollars and decimals thereof, of any such dues, the dollars and decimals, of the amount so ascertained shall be deemed to be conventional dollars reckoned at the equivalent of one shilling and eight pence sterling.

Consequently to arrive at the actual amount payable in Hong Kong currency, the conventional dollar shall be multiplied by 20 and divided by a figure, settled by the Colonial Treasurer from time to time, representing the average opening selling rates for the previous month of the Hong Kong and Shanghai Banking Corporation for demand drafts on London.

FORTUNE-TELLERS TO GO

Summary Offences
Amendment.

Legislation for the suppression of fortune-telling in the Colony is introduced by a Bill, to amend the Summary Offences Ordinance of 1932, which provides for the imposition of a fine not exceeding $250 or imprisonment for any term not exceeding three months.

Prosecution under the new section, however, must pass through the channels of the Secretary for Chinese Affairs, although his consent is not necessary for the arrest of any person suspected of committing such an offence.

The practice of fortune-telling in registered Chinese Temples and conducted by the temple-keepers in accordance with the religious principles governing Miu, Taz, Kun, To Yuen or Om in the worship of gods or communication with the spirits, does not come under the Ordinance.

Fortune-telling outside temples has hitherto been dealt with in the Colony under the Vagrancy Act.

His Excellency the Governor has ordered the Jurors List to be brought into use on April 1, 1933.

Max Factor Make-Up For China

History Of Famous Cosmetics.

HAVE you ever thought that the natural beauty of your make-up largely depends upon the colour harmony in the cosmetics you use? Do you know that the haphazard selection of colours in a variety of cosmetics is often a great handicap to perfect make-up? Some twenty odd years ago Mr. Factor, who had been cosmetician at the Imperial Court of Russia, came to Los Angeles. In those days, motion pictures were in their infancy, and crude as they were, the genius of Mr. Factor saw in this new medium, a chance to make motion pictures one of the most colossal industries in America. In the farthest corners of the world, the Hollywood stars were being regarded as the acme of perfection in womanhood, and the stars themselves realised that they owe part of their success to the creative genius of Max Factor.

Play Tennis In Style

SLEEVELESS frocks, although ideal for tennis, require the addition of a small wrap when one is sitting out between games. A button-on cape is an excellent and very stylish garment—though hardly large enough to be more than an accessory!—which any woman can make for herself.

It is just long enough to cover the shoulders and reach halfway to the elbows; three or four buttons are sewn on to the front of the frock, on either side of the neck, and the cape buttons on to them.

The stockingless vogue has now been adopted by the majority of women, and those who do not like it should try playing in fishnet stockings, which are smart and delightfully cool on the courts.

For women whose feet are tender, and who are apt to get tired by several sets of tennis, there is a shoe with a leather inner sole to prevent any drawing of the feet by the rubber sole. It has attractive twisted straps over the instep which are tied together.

No Pampering!

It is time that mothers took a firm stand against the namby-pamby element in modern upbringing.

The confiding child so often becomes the tale-bearing child. So few parents seem able to understand that usually when a child refuses to "confess" or explain it is because he does not want to implicate others. Independence is a very precious characteristic, and the child who is accustomed to think for himself, decide for himself, and not talk to much about himself is well on the way to acquiring this valuable quality.

Least there should be any risk of children growing too self-contained, however mothers should encourage them to listen readily and generously to all who sought their sympathy.

Never turn a deaf ear to their advances. Teach them that decisions must be made by them and, once made, carried into effect. Mutual admiration and respect are a better foundation for the relations between parent and child than any amount of embarrassing confidences.

tendencies is the greatly increased demand for rubies, which have suddenly come to the forefront of fashion. For those who cannot aspire to rubies there is a Mexican fire opal, an attractive stone of orange-red colour.

Sewing Hints

IN spite of the excellence and usefulness of the Chinese tailor for all simple jobs of sewing, many Hong Kong women do a great deal of home sewing and dressmaking. Some people may be inclined to discredit this statement, but it is nevertheless true.

The following hints, therefore, may be of use:

The skirts and dresses which we used to slip on without any fastenings are things of the past. We have definitely returned to plaques and many other types of openings so that the dress or skirt fits like a glove without a crease or a wrinkle.

A placket to the uninitiated is one of the most difficult things to negotiate, and few amateur dressmakers make a good job of it.

A good point to remember if you are using the now popular lightning zip fastener is to keep it closed while you adjust the facing, then it will be quite even.

When attaching it have the tape of the fastener on the wrong side of the dress and the fabric turned in once. This should be neatly machined down on the right side of the dress.

If you desire a slashed opening then to be careful to finish off your inside binding neatly, tying all ends of cotton so that none come undone. A square end to the binding should always be made as this help to prevent the slash being torn down when pulling a skirt up over the hips.

As most fabric for dresses, coats and lingerie is now cut on the bias, it is advisable before commencing cutting out the fabric to have a perfectly straight edge across the material.

One good way of getting a

Then fold the straight edge of the fabric across to the selvedge to form a diagonal that is a true

Diamond Hair-Grip Popular.

NEW fashions in jewels in London reveal an increasing demand for pieces set with round-cut brilliants. This is a distinct departure from the ultra-modern designs, which admit only of baguette, baton, or square-cut gems.

The effect is to add fire, as it were, to the white-flame brilliance of the diamond.

Among original pieces recently introduced is a bracelet of ribbon-like flexibility, the central ornament of which consists of two clip-brooches which can be detached and worn separately.

Another innovation which is to be seen in many London shops is the diamond hair-grip. This jewel, when worn on the hair, looks exactly as described—an ordinary gem-set grip to keep recalcitrant locks in place. The grip, however, can also be used as a laval brooch or a corsage brooch without alteration of any kind, and when the owner has tired of these manifold uses the jeweller can remove the grip portion and replace it by a pin, thus converting it into an ordinary brooch at the cost of a few shillings.

OLD WOOL

WHEN wool has once been used for knitting or crochet it is difficult to use again with satisfactory results owing to the fact that it has curled and is awkward to use. It may, however, be straightened in a simple manner, and will then be as easy to use as if it were new. Wind the wool round and round a wide piece of cardboard. Secure the end, and then soak it in fairly hot water. Hang the piece of cardboard and wool out of doors to dry. If the wool is soiled it may be washed in soapy water while still wound round the cardboard. When dry the wool will be free from wrinkles.

"Y" Team Well Beaten in Caer Clark Cup.

THE St. Andrew's Ladies secured second place in the Caer Clark Cup Hockey League yesterday when they defeated a depleted "Y" Ladies team by seven clear goals at King's Park.

M. Woolley, and P. Gittins both scored twice and N. Lee added a fifth, while both A. Fowler and B. Portallion had the misfortune to deflect shots into their own net.

The "Y" team were without the services of L. Carr in goal and as a result were seriously handicapped.

St. Andrew's: A. Bryson; M. Bryson; G. White; M. Churn; M. White; I. Woolley; M. Chan; N. Lee; M. Woolley; P. Gittins; P. Wong.

"Y" Ladies: A. Fowler, B. Portallion; M. Gardiner, M. Groundwater; P. McCaw; O. Brown; M. Mason; S. Dulziel; R. Blackmore and P. Blumenthal.

CLUB "A" CLINCH RUGBY TITLE

OVERWHELM BORDERERS IN THE FINAL

LAMMERT SCORES SIX TRIES

A CROWD of approximately 1,500 people yesterday witnessed the Club's triumph in the Seven-A-Side Rugby Tournament in aid of local charities, H.E. Sir William Peel, the Governor, and Lady Peel being among those present.

Other leading personalities who were interested spectators were the G.O.C., Major-General O. C. Borrett, the Commander-in-Chief, China Station, Admiral Dreyer, Sir William Shenton and Miss Y. Shenton, and the Hon. Dr. R. H. Kotewall and Mrs. Kotewall.

By defeating the Borderers' "A" team, the Club registered their second successive win in the tournament. They defeated the Medway "A" in last year's Final.

The standard of rugby was excellent and seven thoroughly enjoyable games were witnessed. The band of the South Wales Borderers rendered pleasing selections during the afternoon.

CREWE READ GIVES BORDERERS WIN.

Austin and Cherrill Shine.

The Borderers' "A" entered the semi-final when they defeated the Club "B" team by three goals (15 points) to nil.

The Club "B" played a very poor game and were outplayed in all departments.

The Borderers scored from the kick off when Crewe-Read scored beneath the posts for Hoskins to add the major points. From the restart the Club attacked, terrible sending Cochrane away, but the latter was brought low by Crewe-Read. The Borderers went further ahead when Martin started a "blind" side movement for Crewe-Read to score and Hoskins to add the major points.

Lt. Martin scored the Borderers' third try in the second half when he took the ball from Hoskins to dive over the line. Hoskins kicked a great goal.

Suter and Birch were both hard working forwards for the winners while Austin and Cherrill shared honours for the Club.

Capt. R. L. Burnett refereed, and lined up the following teams.

Borderers "A"—Lt. Crewe-Read; Lt. Martin (capt.); Lt. Galletly; Lt. Hoskins; Pte. (37) Jones; Cpl. Suter and L/Cpl. Birch.

Club "B"—J. J. Ferguson (capt.); N. M. Cochrane and A. R. Cox; A. W. Torrie; A. F. Walkden, R. I. Cherrill and C. Austin.

MARTIN SHOWS FINE BURST OF SPEED.

Extra Time Played.

A good struggle was witnessed when the Hermes "A" beat the Club "A" by a goal and a try (8 points) to a goal (5 points).

Lt. Martin and Lt. Comdr. Hubback were good in the back division while Doggett shone among the forwards.

The Kent team did well to open the score first as the result of Henderson cross-kicking for Lt. Bonham to go over. Arnold improved on the score with a good kick.

A few minutes later Martin, taking from Doggett, ran strongly for the Kent line. McManus, however, cut across and brought him low with a flying tackle. A cut through by Hubback a few seconds later saw Martin cross over and score. Doggett converting with a good kick.

Extra time was played before Doggett took advantage of a punt forward to touch down in the corner.

Capt. Gotwaltz refereed and lined up the following:

H.M.S. Hermes "A"—Lt. Martin; Lt. Padfield; Lt. Partridge; Lt. Comdr. Hubback (captain); A. B. Green, E. R. A. Doggett and A. B. Braddick.

H.M.S. Kent "A"—Pte. Mid. Henderson; Mid. Finch Noyes; Lt. Bonham (captain); Lt. Sheppard; Lt. E. Morris; E. R. A. Arnold and A. B. McManus.

FASTER BANK SIDE BEAT SUFFOLK.

Lockley's Good Try.

The Hong Kong Bank encountered little difficulty in defeating the Suffolk by four goals (20 points) to a try (3 points).

The Bank were much faster and made use of all their opportunities, though Rigg was not seen at his best.

Allan opened the scoring when he scored up a good pass from the scrum to cut through for Robertson to add the goal points.

Just before the interval, Lockley handed off three Bank men to go over in the corner. Lt. Hoare failed to add the points from a difficult angle.

In the second half the Bank completely overran the Suffolk, Burch, Turner and Rigg each scoring.

Robertson converted two, and Rigg added the major points for his own try.

Comdr. Stephenson refereed and lined up the following:

Bank—R. C. Allan; W. H. B. Rigg and M. W. Turner; Lt. G. Robertson (capt.); D. A. Cumming; J. H. Bradford and R. F. Burch.

Suffolk—O. A. Ford; A. B. Martin; Sub-Lt. Wilkinson; Lt. Lockley (capt.); A. B. Deykin; Lt. Hoare and Sub-Lt. Scarlett.

CLUB RUN RIOT TO SCORE 21 PTS.

Perfect Movements.

The Club "A" defeated the Eighth Destroyer Flotilla by an overwhelming score of three goals and two tries (21 points) to a try (3 points).

The Club were much faster and each movement was carried out with perfect precision.

The Club opened the scoring through Lammert, who took advantage of a fine opening by Griffiths to touch down between the posts. McEllan, however, failed to convert.

The Club's second try was a brilliant one. Griffiths took the ball from Jenkins, sold the dummy to Griffith, and cut through the remainder of the Destroyer team to score in a favourable position for McEllan to add the major points.

Just before the interval the Destroyer team scored their only try when Wotton snapped up a pass from the scrum, handed off McElney and dived for the corner flag. Fisher failed to convert.

Lammert scored easily in the second half as the result of a good back movement. Selby added the goal points.

Immediately from the kick off Jenkins executed a brilliant solo run, handing off West and Griffin to score easily. McEllan adding the major points.

Just before the whistle, Peers followed up a punt forward to score near the corner flag.

Major McIntyre refereed and lined up the following:

Club "A"—G. P. Lammert; R. H. Griffiths, and A. F. Jenkins; Dr. J. A. R. Selby (capt.); J. H. McElney, W. E. Peers and D. McEllan.

8th D. Flt.—A. B. Wotton; A. B. Griffin and A. B. West; A. B. Hall; Lt. Beebe; Lt. Fisher (capt.) and L. S. Woodgate.

BORDERERS DEFEAT HERMES.

Hoskins Kicks Good Goal.

The Borderers' "A" entered the final when they defeated the Hermes "A" by two tries and a penalty goal (9 points) to nil.

The Borderers, although the faster of the two teams, did not have everything their own way, the tackling of the Hermes backs being very sound.

The Hermes pressed from the start but Martin and Crewe-Read proved to be too good for the forwards. Galletly made a good run on the left wing but he was brought low by Partridge.

The Borderers, after a series of

In the second half the Borderers were given a free kick for offside, and Hoskins kicked a great goal from the touchline.

BANK NEARLY ROBS CLUB OF WIN.

Superior in First Half.

The best game of the day, the semi-final between the Club "A" and the Bank, resulted in a win for the former by two goals, a try and a penalty goal (16 points) to a goal and a try (8 points).

The Bank gave a great display against a faster team and in the first half were the better team. Turner, Robertson and Bradford were outstanding.

The first half opened with the Bank attacking strongly, but the Club tackled determinedly and kept them out. A good run down the right wing by McElney and Peers was brought to an abrupt end when Turner picked up and cleared.

From the lineout the Club attacked, during which they were awarded a free kick for offside. McEllan took the kick from the touchline and kicked a great goal.

The Bank retaliated from the kick off, but Allan waited too long before passing, McElney bringing him low with a good tackle.

From the scrum down the Bank took the lead, Turner executing a great run to send Rigg over for a try which Robertson converted.

Just before the interval the Club went further ahead when Selby cleverly foiled the Bank three quarters by selling the dummy and then threw out a long pass to Jenkins, who in turn transferred to Lammert, the latter outpacing Rigg to the line. Selby converting.

In the second half the Club increased their score when Lammert went over from a pass from Jenkins. McEllan majoring.

The Bank retaliated strongly and a fine forward movement by Bradford, Burch and Cumming, saw the ball finally come out to Turner who showed a terrific turn of speed to score in a favourable position. Robertson failed with the kick, the ball rolling over.

Just before time the Club again scored when Jenkins crossed over after handing off Allan and Rigg. McEllan failed with the kick.

BORDERERS LOSE TO FASTER SEVEN.

Peers Watches Martin.

The Club "A", holders of the Seven-A-Side Rugby title, registered their second consecutive win, when they defeated the Borderers' "A" by three goals and a try (18 points) to nil in the Final Round yesterday.

The Club were the better team throughout, the Borderers' back division failing to show the same understanding as in their previous games.

Jenkins was outstanding, his thorough understanding of Selby's tactics proved invaluable, and his opening up of the game as a consequence was excellent. Griffiths also played a splendid game and was responsible for some fine openings. Selby played his usual brilliant game and clearly demonstrated that he is the best strategist in local rugby.

The Club opened the scoring after a series of scrums, Jenkins taking the ball on the run from Selby to give a reverse pass to Griffiths, who just managed to beat Crewe-Read in BRILLIANT BOWLING by A. T. Lee (5 for 51) and E. L. Gosano (5 for 23) gave the University a sensational triumph over the Kowloon Cricket Club in the premier cricket league yesterday. As the result of their win the undergraduates are now in a very strong, challenging position for the title held by the Indian Recreation Club. They play their last league game to-day when they meet Craighower at the Valley.

Lt. Garthwaite (8 for 34) robbed the Civil Service of any hopes of winning one game this season and gave the Army a comfortable victory. The Valley side have now concluded the season with only one point.

a thrilling race to the Borderers' line. McEllan's kick at goal was charged down by Suter and Birch.

Following this try the Club team swept the Borderers off their feet with a series of rushes.

Lammert added to the Club's score when he took a pass from the scrum to cut through and score. Selby added the goal points.

Just before the interval Martin, the Borderers' captain, showed a terrific burst of speed, but Peers bundled him into touch with a glorious tackle. A few seconds later Peers again brought Martin low with a tackle.

The Borderers took play into the Club 25, when Hoskins kicked forward, but Griffiths knocked on in attempting to gather the ball.

The first back division movement the Borderers had during the game was spoiled when, after passing everybody but Griffiths and Lammert, Martin sent out a wild pass to Crewe-Read.

The Club went further ahead when McElney picked up from a dribble to cross over and score. Selby adding the goal points.

Just before the final whistle the Club scored again. Selby snapping up the ball from the scrum to pass on the "blind" side to Jenkins, who, in turn, sent Lammert over to score. Selby again converting.

Sack Rugby.

The Sack rugby of nineteen men aside was most amusing, especially when one of the players sat in the barrel to prevent the opposing side from scoring.

THE second "hat trick" in league cricket this season was recorded at the Valley where S. Abbas dismissed Lt. Cooper, S. C. Jordan and Sgt. Buckle with successive balls. All his victims were clean bowled! He finished up the innings with 5 for 11 and was largely responsible for the Craighower Juniors' sixth success.

The only other league game on the programme was featured by a chanceless century by C. J.

MORMON CHURCH IN BUSINESS

A Prince of American Finance

LATTER-DAY SAINTS' SPIRITUAL HEAD

(By Martin Moore.)

TWO strangely assorted forces rule the economic life of the State of Utah; the mining interests and the Mormon Church. Stand at night by the foot of the Brigham Young statue in Salt Lake City and look down Main Street.

Almost every big building that flanks that glittering, mile-long avenue of light has been erected out of the profits of Utah's mines. The "business end" of Salt Lake City is a monument to silver and lead.

Turn, then, to the "Mormon end" of the capital. Working late in the Church offices you will find President Heber J. Grant, active and erect, despite his seventy-eight years. He is not only supreme spiritual head of the Church of Latter-Day Saints. He is also, by virtue of that headship, a business magnate whose wide interests rank him with America's princes of finance.

Financial Power.

The Mormon Church has $50,000,000 capital investment in business enterprises. Its president is chairman of five leading companies and a director of many more. With the assistance of the Twelve Apostles, the Bishops, and other Church officials, he administers

Two banks;
Twenty-seven sugar refineries;
A large department store;
Two hotels;
A series of apartment houses;
A daily newspaper; and Considerable areas of real estate.

Besides these undertakings owned or directly controlled, the Church has financial interests carrying a seat on the directorate of numerous other companies. In normal times these investments bring into the coffers of the Mormon Church some $3,000,000 annually. But for the past two years this income has been dwindling, until to-day many of the undertakings owned by the Church have become liabilities.

It is the duty of every Mormon—and there are 700,000 of them throughout the world—to give 10 per cent. of his income to the Church. But this source of revenue, too, has been decimated by the slump.

Nevertheless, the Church of the Latter-Day Saints is still a financial power in Utah. Salt Lake City witnessed an example of this power only recently, when one of the local banks closed its doors. The collapse of this institution caused a run on another bank—the Church-owned Zion's Savings Bank. President Grant announced that the whole resources of the Mormon Church were behind this bank, and the run immediately ceased.

Political power is waning. There was a time when the Mormon hierarchy influenced elections in five States, and when the word of the President (always a Republican) determined the suffrages of the Mormon voters. But now the Church—though its economic interests are still as closely linked as ever with the Republican, high tariff cause—disclaims all political influence.

Mormonism's historic allegiance to Republicanism can be explained in one word: sugar. It was the Mormons who first brought sugar beet seed from Germany and made Utah the principal sugar beet producer in the Union. The Church, which still controls the sugar refineries of the State, wants high tariffs to protect this industry. It also wants high tariffs to guard its other agricultural products from foreign competition, for the Mormons have always been, and still are, a predominantly farming community.

Early Pioneers.

Individuals among early Mormons had no capital, so virtually every enterprise except agriculture had to be financed and directed by the Church as a whole, with communal money.

But into the second great enterprise of Utah—mining—the Church has never entered. The sharp line that divides the "Mormon end" of Salt Lake City from the "business end" is significant of the traditional policy that has kept the Latter-Day Saints aloof from the mines which have made so many fortunes for others.

Brigham Young resolutely opposed the development of the vast mineral resources of his new territory. His people needed food; and food was to be obtained by tilling the soil, not by mining it. Moreover, mining would attract outsiders and Brigham Young's ideal was isolation—just as it is the true political ideal of Mormons to-day.

Thus, amid all this wealth, the early pioneers were almost without metals. They built a tabernacle to seat 8,500 people without a single nail or screw, of beams fastened together by wooden pegs and bound with thongs of raw cowhide. It still stands to-day, an architectural marvel of self-supporting arches.

But, despite Mormon opposition, mining has rapidly become Utah's chief industry. Beyond the snow-peaks that encircle Salt Lake City are rich deposits of gold, silver, copper, lead, zinc, and other metals. Three years ago the production of these metals brought nearly $90,000,000 into the State of Utah—most of it spent in Salt Lake City. In 1931 the mining income was only $21,000,000. Last year (1932) it was far less, though returns have not yet been completed.

Of the 150 normally productive mines in Utah only eight are now working—and all of these under heavy curtailment. With most of the miners unemployed and the remainder on part-time, and with scarcely any minerals being transported, railwaymen are losing their jobs and farmers their valuable local market.

Utah produces one-third of all the silver mined in the United States; and down in the business end of Salt Lake City the magic word "bi-metallism" is being freely spoken as the "Open Sesame" that will unlock the door to prosperity again. Mining leaders with whom I have talked do not advocate the free coinage of silver. But they believe that the introduction of a judicious amount of silver, varying in percentage according to the needs of individual nations, would go far to relieve the present situation.

Mormon Thrift.

This policy is put forward as a contribution towards world recovery.

Another suggestion I have heard here is that all or part of Europe's war debts should be paid in silver; but this proposal has received little influential support.

Desperate though the economic situation here undoubtedly is, Utah has suffered less in actual privation than many other States. One of the only words surviving from the language invented by the early Mormons is the word "deseret," which means "thrift."

Thrift is a strong characteristic of Utah. Few of its people launched into the spectacular excesses of extravagance that were seen in most parts of America during the boom years. Consequently, this State though hard hit, still has reserves that soften the blow.

WISE & OTHERWISE

TYPISTS OVERHEARD:
"I'm going out to-night with an Irishman."
"Oh, really?"
"No, O'Brien."

EXCEPTION
"The heart of the modern girl is like glass," declares a bachelor. "The average man can make no impression on it." Unless, of course, he tries a diamond.

The Exception.
A man has just married a woman who saved him from drowning. Our free insurance, of course, does not cover that risk.

Sees Through Him.
"Every girl is a ray of sunshine to her fiancé," says a novelist; but what does she become after they marry? An ex-ray.

Bachelors, Beware!
"A kiss lasts on an average two and a half seconds," says a writer. The results, however, may well last a whole lifetime.

In That Order.
Smith (looking up from his newspaper): "I say, Jim, what is the Order of the Bath?"
Brown: "Well, as I've experienced it, it's first the water's too hot; then it's too cold; then you're short of a towel; then you step on the soap; and, finally the telephone bell rings."

FIRST GIRL: By the way, both Jim and William proposed to me last night.
SECOND: You refused them both.
FIRST: How did you know?
SECOND: I saw them afterwards. They were shaking hands.

BREECHES OF PROMISE
Hollywood actresses have started a craze for trousers among women. They argue that the skirt is on its last legs.

Litter-nature.
I read that a famous novelist is to be asked to write notices for the Anti-Litter Society.

OVERHEARD.
"Heavens, doesn't Janet look terrible with that two weeks' growth of eyebrows."

Revised Version.
Where there's a bill there's a "Why?"

"Year In, Year Out..."
Any day now the spring-cleaning joke season will begin.

O Spare a Tear, of Pity!
The saxophone was named after some one named Sax. Just think of the poor cuss who was married to the Meg the megaphone was named after!

ONE WAY OUT.
A man who disliked nicknames or diminutives, such as Willie or Will for William, was married, and in due course of time had five boys. The first one was named William after his father. Maybe it would have been shortened to Willie or Will, but the second was Wilmont, the third Wilbur, the fourth Wilbert, the fifth Wilfred.
"Ah!" laughed the father; "now people will have to call them by their proper names, and not by nicknames."

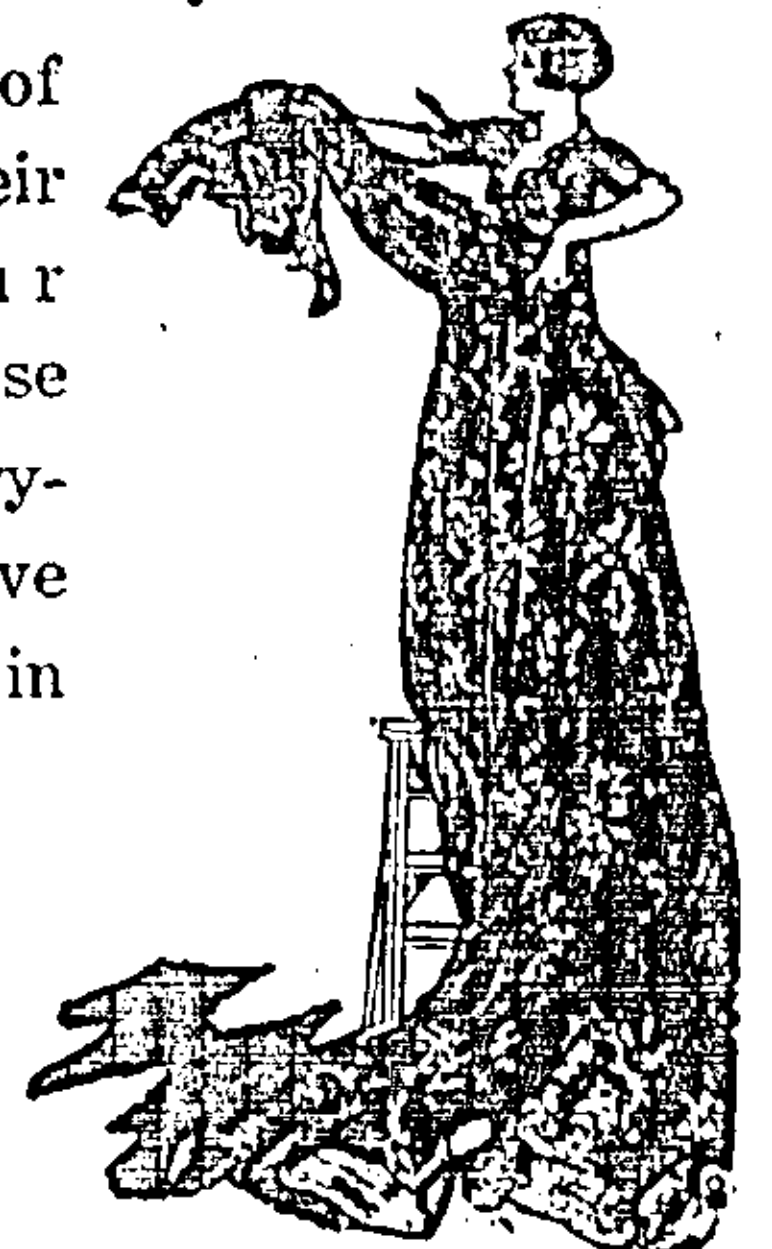

As a result of this, the five boys were known as Bill, Chuck, Skinny, Tubby and Buddy.

BRIDGE NOTES PSYCHOLOGY ILLUSTRATED.

(By Ely Culbertson.)

While most Bridge writers place considerable stress on the importance of the psychological element in the game, one usually finds that they deal only with its application to bidding. I do not recollect ever seeing an illustration of the effect of psychology on the play, and I therefore venture to draw attention to the following hand, which occurred the other evening, and forms, I think, as pretty an example of psychological play as it would be possible to find.

Neither side was vulnerable.
North dealt and bid one spade on this hand:

Spades K J 10 6 4 2
Hearts J
Diamonds A K 10
Clubs 7 6 4
East overcalled with two diamonds. South held:

Spades 7 5 3
Hearts A K Q 10 6 4 2
Diamonds Q
Clubs A J

and bid six hearts, which East doubled. South redoubled, and there was no further bidding.

West's Opening lead was a diamond. South won with the Queen and then went into Dummy with the Knave of hearts to obtain two diamonds on the diamond Ace and King. These diamonds brought into play the psychological factor.

It was, of course, practically certain that East held the Ace and Queen of spades. The positions of the club King and Queen were not so clear, there being a good chance that one of them at least, lay on South's left. While it was probable, however, that if West held either of these cards, South should be one trick light, there was still a chance of bringing off a successful "squeeze," and South set out to frame his plans accordingly.

Rapidly South looked ahead to the time when he should have four cards left, two of which would be trumps and the other two "losers," since he must part with the Ace of clubs in order to get the lead in his own hand. East would then, in all probability, hold, in addition to the Ace-Queen of spades, either King-Queen, King-Jack or Queen-Jack of clubs. What would he discard on South's next trump lead? This obviously depended on South's discard of the diamonds.

If South discarded two spades, East would in all probability discard the spade Queen. But would he carry his reasoning to its logical conclusion and discard the Ace also on South's last trump? It was clearly necessary to take into account East's "class" before proceeding. South knew him to be just a moderate kind of player, who, while making no bad mistakes, would be likely to fall short in a crisis such as this, and decided that, at the last, East would shirk parting with the spade Ace and would compromise a club. This would defeat South, since East and West must then make the last 2 tricks.

Clearly, therefore, South must discard a spade and rely upon East keeping as his last three cards the Ace of spades and two clubs. It was possible that in view of South's discard of a club East might have a "brain-wave" and discard both his clubs, but here, again, South's knowledge of his mentality was of assistance. He knew that East was well acquainted with the wiles of falsecarding, and without analyzing the position very clearly, he would probably, on seeing the club Knave, immediately say to himself, "Aha! Another of South's falsecards!" In any case, the risk had to be taken.

Everything worked out beautifully. South discarded a spade and the Knave of clubs, led a club and won with the Ace, and then led five more trumps. On the last of these, East, who held King-Jack of clubs, discarded the spade Queen, thus giving South his contract.

Of course, the whole point of the hand is that, had East been a first-class player, South's best policy would have been to discard two spades and to rely upon East discarding both the Ace and Queen. Or again, had the latter been one of the world's "frankling" players, he might, when South discarded two spades, have argued that South was probably bluffing, and discarded two clubs. And, in that case, would not South's best plan have been to try a "double bluff" by discarding a spade and a club? But enough!

The American Banking Crisis.

DUE to the prompt and decisive action of the United States Government the most serious consequences of the American banking crisis have been postponed and, whatever the ultimate results, the emergency measures have served their purpose, namely, the preventing of a sudden panic which may have produced disastrous results. Unnecessary alarm will have subsided to a large extent when the banks re-open to-morrow and the financial leaders, and the general public, will be able to take a calmer and clearer view of the situation through the contemplation allowed them during the past week. In any crisis, a respite is necessary, and President Roosevelt and his administration have accomplished much by their initial efforts at coping with the crisis. The problem will not be quickly or easily solved, and it is impossible at present to estimate the final effect. That the American gold dollar will suffer immediate deterioration when the exchanges open to-morrow admits of little question but it is also undoubted that the damage has been mitigated by application of the emergency measures, particularly the enforcement of the gold embargo. Apparently, the United States administration is determined to retain the gold standard, and great emphasis has been stressed on the claim that the suspension of the gold standard is purely temporary. Whether or not the claim will be realised is at the moment merely a matter for conjecture, but there are many who opine that America will be forced eventually to abandon the gold standard. That belief is based mainly on the widely-supported theory that the currency system has been found inadequate for the world's needs and that a new international system will have to be established in order to restore the world's financial structure. Be that as it may, the problem has peculiar issues to the United States. Abandonment of the gold standard would prove of enormous benefit to America's export trade, but would lose her the advantages she now possesses as creditor nation and as the largest possession of gold. The approaching climax on the war debts question may prove opportune to the United States as furnishing a bargaining weapon at a time when international assistance is almost imperative. Foreign raids on American gold may be prevented by the grant of war debt concessions. A most desirable object may be achieved in that any international co-operation ensuing from the present crisis may lead to a concerted effort, probably at the World Economic Conference, to establish a new, fixed and universal currency. The present position of depreciated national currencies is intolerable, and it is an ironic reflection that nations of the gold standard are able to manage as well as those countries still adhering to it. Financiers, bankers and economists exist in a state of bewildered perplexity on the matter, but all are agreed that a solution of the monetary confusion would remove one of the chief obstacles hindering world recovery from the economic depression.

In addition to international benefits that may eventuate from America's financial difficulties, the crisis has served to illustrate the deficiencies of the American banking system. The public has long been cognisant of the weakness of the banking laws, but as typified in many other instances, remedy has been delayed until extreme adversity compels action. The faults of the system were illustrated during the crash following the 1929 boom when the startling number of bank failures contrasted vividly with the manner in which the Canadian banks, operating under the English system, survived the same economic slump. Reform will prove vastly beneficial to the country and an encouraging indication for the future was provided when President Roosevelt took immediate action to initiate Federal and State legislation for tightening-up the banking laws and stipulating wide Government control of banking operations. Indeed, Mr. Roosevelt has commenced his Presidential term in most auspicious manner and has demonstrated an ability which has exceeded the expectations of even the closest of his friends and supporters. He has exhibited a decision and determined purpose which have resulted in Congress wisely deciding to give him a free hand. The swift action at Washington has produced confidence. Faced with innumerable intricate problems, Mr. Roosevelt is coping with all with an energy and ability which will produce early favourable results.

NEW MONUMENT TO M. CLEMENCEAU.

Collection Of Speeches
To Be Published.

PRIVATE SUBSCRIPTION.

Paris. Frenchmen are determined to keep the memory of "The Tiger" of France alive. An unofficial group, comprising 24 persons who knew Clemenceau, has been formed in Paris under the title of "Friends of Georges Clemenceau."

They intend to erect a statue to his memory executed by the sculptor Suard, whose work is preferred by Clemenceau's family to that of the statue already erected in the Champs Elysees.

They also propose to publish a complete collection of the great French Statesman's speeches.

This will prove no easy task. Clemenceau always scribbled his speeches in a kind of "telegraphic" with a heavy coloured pencil. His friends will thus have merely the framework of many of his most important pronouncements.

The Government has decided to keep "The Tiger's" memory green on the desolate sand dune where he lived in his long, low cottage, surrounded by a wild garden of his own making, at St. Vincent-du-Jard (Vendee). By a notice in the official journal, this "paradise of dune" as it is called, is to be taken over by the Minister of Education as an historic monument.—Reuter.

CHINESE STUDENTS' MEETING-PLACE.

New Club Formed
In London.

BOXER FUND GRANT.

London. The first central meeting-place for Chinese students in London is being opened in Gover-street, Bloomsbury.

It is China House, and, with its library, common rooms, and meeting rooms, it will fill a need similar to that at present met by the existing centre for Indian students in Gower-street. There will be Chinese paintings in the principal rooms and throughout the house an effort will be made to create a Chinese atmosphere.

The enterprise has been made possible by a grant which the Universities' China Committee recently received from the Government, following the agreement between the British and Chinese Governments that £200,000 from the Boxer indemnity should be devoted to the development of cultural relations between the two countries.

There are at present said to be about 470 Chinese students in British universities, of whom more than 250 are in London.

The Secretary of the new China House is Mr. H. T. Silcock.—Reuter.

February 10.

George III.'s Grandson.

No one at the Hunt Ball, held at Romano's recently in aid of the Royal Veterinary College, seemed to enjoy himself more thoroughly than Sir Augustus FitzGeorge. Despite his nearly 86 years he was fox-trotting with the best, and gave some young men a quarter his age an object lesson in the rhythm of the dance.

The majority of the men were in hunting pink, a circumstance which gave an unusual and welcome note of colour to a London restaurant. Sir Augustus was among those so habited, and so, also, of course, were the several M.F.H.s of the party.

Sir Augustus is the third son of the late Duke of Cambridge, and is thus a grandson of George III. He received his knighthood from King Edward when, on the death of his father, he waited on the Majesty to return the insignia borne by the Duke.

Lord Milne of "Roobala."

Roobala, which Field-Marshal Lord Milne links with Salonika in his pedigree, is his birthplace, near Aberdeen, where it is pronounced "Roobala." It was once in the country, and as picturesque as its name, but now it is almost a western suburb of the Granite City.

There is, indeed, a "Roobala" granite, which gives the town some of its solid dignity, and, on account of its colour, has found architectural uses in most parts of the world.

The Archdales' Record.

Sir Edward Archdale, Minister of Agriculture in Northern Ireland, who has just celebrated his 80th birthday, is the "grand old man" of the Ulster Parliament.

He entered the Navy in the sixties, and retired in 1889, since when he has devoted himself to politics and agriculture.

The Archdales have the distinction of having represented their county in Parliament for 156 years without a break.

As An Astrologer.

Lord Waverley was a great believer in the influence of the stars. Indeed, for some time he used to have a weekly bet with the late Lord Birkenhead—who was a great friend—as to the correctness of his week's horoscope.

Lord Waverley nearly always won.

At Sussex Lodge.

In London's social life Lady Waverley has for long taken a leading part. There most readily springs to mind her annual tennis garden-party at Sussex Lodge, in Regent's Park.

For some years now, immediately following the close of the Wimbledon Championships, Lady Waverley has given this most popular function, at which all the tennis stars may be seen at close quarters playing with a light-hearted abandon impossible during the stern business of championship battles. And there must be many among those who have enjoyed Lady Waverley's hospitality on these occasions who have envied her possession of a house in the heart of London blessed with a garden large enough to accommodate two lawn-tennis courts with ample run-back and side space.

A Barrister's Faux Pas.

An incident happened in court recently that puzzled those members of the public who witnessed it.

A young barrister, obviously newly called, entered the court and sat down in counsel's seats, placing his very new blue silk brief-bag on the ledge before him.

An elderly counsel leant over and whispered to him. Blushing furiously, the young man snatched his brief bag from the ledge and hid it beneath his seat.

Premature. As a matter of fact, the young man had infringed a rule of etiquette of the Bar for the owner of a blue brief-bag is not allowed to show it in court.

Later in his career he may make a great success of some important case on which he is engaged with a leader who is a silk. The leader may signify his admiration and pleasure by presenting the clever junior with a red brief-bag. This bag is a sign of honour, and then the lucky owner may place it before him in court so that all may see it.

New Chancellor of the Thistle.

The office of Chancellor of the Order of the Thistle, to which the King has appointed the Earl of Mar and Kellie, is one after the Earl's own heart, for his interest in everything pertaining to the history and antiquities of Scotland is lifelong and profound.

He already holds the office of Hereditary Keeper of Stirling Castle, to which his appointment was really a restoration, for until the attainder of John, sixth Earl of Mar, in 1715, the office had been associated with the family for some 350 years, having been made hereditary by Mary Queen of Scots.

It is interesting to know that among the most treasured possessions of Lord Mar and Kellie is a cradle which was made to the design of Mary Queen of Scots for her infant child, our own King James I.

A Vigorous Septuagenarian.

Mr. John Burns is rarely seen in public nowadays, but the sturdy figure and the well-poised head make him easily recognisable even to those who know his features only through photographs.

His 74 years sit lightly on him. He is still strong and vigorous, and never wears an overcoat, even in the coldest weather. Apart from his books—he has a huge, well-chosen library—walking is now his principal recreation. His hobby is London, and his collection of books and maps relating to the metropolis must be of great value.

Coombe Memories.

News that the Coombe Estate, Kingston Hill, has been sold and will be broken up, is a reminder that forty years ago some of the most brilliant Society hostesses of that time entertained at houses in the neighbourhood.

Chief among these was the beautiful Lady de Grey. Among her frequent guests at Coombe Court were the then Prince and Princess of Wales, and Melba who often sang after dinner.

Near by Lord Charles Beresford lived at Coombe Cottage, while Baron de Forest and Adm. Bridge had "week-end" cottages at Coombe.

Melba, by the way, often rented Coombe Cottage, and so fond was she of this retreat that she named a house she built in Australia after it.

Sir Henry Dickens.

Sir Henry Fielding Dickens, K.C., the sixth and only surviving son of Charles Dickens, spent his eighty-fourth birthday at sea, as he and Lady Dickens were on their way to Ceylon, where they are staying until April.

Until October last year he held the position of Common Serjeant of London, and presided over the third court at the Central Criminal Court.

He sat at the Old Bailey for fifteen years. His kindly manner, sympathetic understanding and spontaneous humour won him many friends.

Sir Henry was called to the Bar sixty years ago, three years after the death of his father.

The day after his retirement he visited the cinema for the first time in his life.

World Aggression Due To Envy

Finding Expression In Intolerance

SOURCE OF RIDICULE

(By A Local Padre.)

(This is another of the series of articles written exclusively for the "Sunday Herald" by a local Army chaplain.)

[The third of the series of articles on the characters of The Cross.]

THE office of the High Priest of the Jewish Faith carried both ecclesiastical and political authority for the nation and people, and was of tremendous influence. In him and the Sanhedrin was vested the only semblance of power the Romans had left to the Jews.

To interfere with this supremacy came the claims and teaching of Jesus of Nazareth. The multitudes had begun to follow Him, Palestine was stirred to its remotest villages. Everywhere He was being discussed.

To crown all there had been that triumphal entry into Jerusalem a few days before, when the people had greeted Him as a king.

The High Priest and Elders began to realize that this growing influence was a direct threat to their power. If they failed to counteract it now, their supremacy would be a thing of the past. The implicit obedience which the people had given them was at stake.

They were filled with jealousy and hate against this new and unaccustomed young teacher—this man without family connections, without academic distinction, who had shown his superiority to their traditions, had exposed them to merciless sarcasm as hypocrites and who had cleared the Temple of their money-changers, and yet no one had dared to interfere, or had been bold enough to resist. If this influence were to grow, theirs was doomed.

But Caiaphas and his family were not going to yield without a struggle. They determined to end His career as soon as possible. They had pretty cunning. They had not intrigued as long as they had, without knowing that the loyalty of many a friend can be tampered with, and soon found a weak spot. Judas was reduced for a paltry sum, and the plot had been to betray Him. It was this would be at night, when there would be no danger of the people rising in His defence. They would move swiftly and surely, turn the tide of popular opinion, and regain their fast waning influence and authority. Everything went according to plan, and the prisoner brought in triumph to the palace of the High Priest, to be tried for His life by Caiaphas, envious, jealous by those rulers determined already upon His death.

The Sin of Envy.

At the bottom of it all was one thing, envy, a sin so easily nursed, so silent, so unseen yet so malicious that it dries up all affection and pity. Is it any wonder that Christ in His ministry, continually facing as He did this spirit of envy, laid so much emphasis on the spirit of humility? When Caiaphas and the elders saw the threatened overthrow of their power they were moved with envy in two directions. Religious intolerance, and promptings of worldly interests.

Not for the first time in history has there been religious intolerance when one side is very strong, and the other very weak. But just as soon as the weak becomes the strong, then envy finds expression in intolerance.

In the case of Caiaphas it showed itself first of all in treachery. They seduced a disciple for the reputed sake of religion, or rather religious domination. Do we wonder at times that religion has been scorned and rejected?

Next came deceit. The false witness in their evidence committed obvious perjury. The Gospels show how utterly irrelevant was their testimony, how it broke down completely and how, contrary to all legal practice, the judge tried to make the prisoner compromise and incriminate himself.

This intolerance led on to injustice. The prisoner was given no chance to defend himself, no counsel, no witnesses. Prosecution became persecution, and none is so cruel and vindictive as that exercised in the name of religion. The trials for heresy, ancient and modern, testify to the malignant injustice of prosecution.

Mockery of Justice.

So it was that the trial of Christ became a mockery of justice, and in gross violation of all law, the prisoner was condemned to death.

Caiaphas knew the strength of the motive to which he appealed. He was keen in matters of self interest, arrogant with anyone who crossed his path.

We ask ourselves again as we did in the case of Judas and Simon Peter, is it possible that the act of Caiaphas can ever be repeated. The answer is found in another question,—has envy ceased to exist since his day?

Has there been no religious intolerance in the history of the Christian Church? Haven't we seen it showing itself in scorn and ridicule of others who may be doing good in their way, which is not our way, in our own particular communions, and outside? Has not envy of the work and success of others called out our criticism and condemnation?

Then when Christians have become imbued with the worldly spirit, have they not been all too ready to use the power of the state to crush those in opposition?

No alliance has done more to corrupt Christianity than the bestowal of temporal dignities and powers on religious leaders, as was done in Europe after the conversion of Constantine the Great. It was envy allied with worldly interests that made the Arians persecute Athanasius and drive him from the See of Alexandria. It was this envy that made it possible for Christians to persecute Christians in the Middle Ages, that produced the horrors of the Inquisition, the fires of Smithfield, and the massacre of St. Bartholomew's day.

It was this spirit of envy which made the Church persecute the Puritans, compelling them to fly to the New World to find freedom of worship, and in turn made these same Puritans, when dominant there, persecute the churchmen of their new found home. It is this spirit of envy which may animate one communion to ridicule another, to withhold the hand of friendship, to refuse the word of encouragement, to fail to rejoice in the victories over crime and evil, of those outside our own ecclesiastical fold.

It is the spirit of envy which has crucified the body of the Church all down the Christian centuries, even as it slew the Christ. Not until she is delivered from its power will she be able to go forward to achieve her destiny.

SALVAGING THE ANTUNG.

Request For British Naval Protection.

Chinese authorities desire that British naval protection be afforded to the Antung salvage party on board the tug Taikoo, throughout their operations as it is thought that the protection of Chinese troops ashore is not sufficient.

If the weather permits the Taikoo will proceed along side the wreck and an attempt will be made to obtain the engineer's log-book which is in the engineer's messroom.

SWEDEN'S MACHINE INDUSTRY

Favourable Exchange
Saves Situation.

SIXTH LARGEST SHIPBUILDER.

Stockholm. Sweden's machine works industry during 1932, although in many cases strongly influenced by the economic depression, in others showed surprisingly good results in view of the general world situation. This appears from an interesting investigation performed by "Swedish Export," the organ of the General Swedish Export Association.

The Separator Company, the leading concern of its kind in the world, thanks to the high quality and the old-established reputation of its products fully maintained its share of the total sales of cream separators and dairy equipment in the international market, but owing to the agricultural crisis its total sales amounted to only between 40 and 50 per cent. of the sales value of 1931. The depreciated rate of exchange of the Swedish krona, which makes the prices of the company's products in the gold standard countries more attractive, only partly neutralised the effect of the depression in the export market.

The Karlstads Mekaniska Verkstad, which together with its subsidiary manufactures a series of important specialties including machinery for paper and pulp mills and water turbines, reports orders during the past year amounting to about twice the value of the 1931 orders. This company since a number of years has registered a considerable expansion of its markets in spite of the heavy foreign competition. The Elektrolux Works, manufacturers of vacuum cleaners, household refrigerators, water filters, etc., report a decrease of their exports from the Swedish works owing to the raised customs barriers, while the manufacture of its foreign works has increased so that the total world sales for the past year appear to have exceeded the result of 1931.

The electric industry, chiefly represented by the Asca Company, in spite of a decrease in their export orders have held their own well thanks to large domestic Government orders, mainly for the electrification of the State railways. The motor works have suffered considerably in their foreign business from the international trade obstructions, while the domestic orders have kept up fairly well.

The ballbearing industry as reported from the S. K. F. Company on the whole seems to have maintained its export sales well in comparison with 1931 partly owing to the lower rate of the krona, which has enabled the company to reduce its prices in foreign currency. The foreign factories of the S. K. F. have strongly felt the influence of the crisis. The last two months of the year, however, have brought a distinct improvement in the sales.

The automobile industry as reported from the Volvo Company has had a rather good year. Thus during 1932 the Volvo Concern sold 2,545 passenger cars and trucks, of which 590 were for export in comparison with total sales during 1931 of 1931 cars, an increase of about 33 per cent.

The Swedish shipyards have experienced a decrease in their order stock, but during the third quarter of 1932 Sweden held the sixth place amongst the ship-building countries. At the turn of the year 18 ships of together 84,260 gross tons were in the course of construction. While 4 vessels aggregating 17,300 gross tons were ordered but not yet begun. Although the definite figures for the entire Swedish export trade during 1932 have not yet been published it seems that the total value of the Swedish export has decreased by about 16 per cent. in comparison with 1931.—Reuter.

5,000 MOTORS IN PROCESSION.

Protest Against New Taxes.

The procession, which followed a stormy meeting in one of the largest halls in the city, was forbidden by the police, and was dispersed before it had gone far.—Reuter.

BRITISH INTEREST IN BELGRADE.

English Kindergarten School Founded.

WOMEN'S CLUB SHORTLY.

Belgrade. Children of British and American residents in Belgrade will henceforth be able to attend their own kindergarten, the "Charles Dickens" school, which has been opened here in the presence of a representative of King Alexander.

An inaugural service was held by Dr. Prince, Bishop of Dalmatia, and speeches were made by Dr. Prince, American Minister, and Mr. Cowan, First Secretary of the British Legation.

The kindergarten, which has been founded with the assistance of the Society of Friends of Great Britain and America in Yugoslavia, is intended to serve for the education both of the children of members of the growing British and American colonies and for those Yugoslav children whose parents wish them to learn English from the cradle. Children of from 2½ to 7 years are taken at the school.

In the same building will be housed the British Women's Club, shortly to be opened, which will provide British women passing through Belgrade with a centre where they will find comfortable rooms, excellent food, the service of English speaking guides for shopping and sight-seeing, and where they can meet with English speaking women of Yugoslavia.—Reuter.

TOY DOG AS GIFT FOR POPE.

Place Of Honour For Child's Present.

Vatican City. A little black and white toy dog now stands on the Pope's desk in his private library, amid masses of documents and letters from bishops and statesmen in all parts of the world.

The Pope regards it as one of his most treasured possessions. The dog came into the Pope's possession at a recent audience to which a woman had brought her little son aged two.

As the Pope laid his hand in blessing on his head, the child suddenly held out the little toy dog to His Holiness.

The Pope willingly accepted the gift.—Reuter.

"CHINA UNIFIED BY AN IDEAL"

Only Militarists Divided.

WHAT COUNTRY NEEDS.

London. China needs to acquaint itself with science in order to use its resources, declared Dr. T. C. Chao, professor of philosophy at the Yen Ching University, Peking, in a lecture he gave at Manchester.

He said that China needs to learn modern political thought and economics. Dr. Chao defined what Government meant to ancient China and said that his country was much more organized to-day than ever before.

"Government was nothing but a big family to ancient China," he said. "It did not protect; it did not regulate; the people ruled themselves, and the Emperor was a good man who ruled by example. If he was not a good man his generals had the right to revolt."

"Emperors came, emperors went, wars came and went, but the Chinese people never died because they ruled themselves and thought little of order and law."

Dr. Chao said that modern China was a different matter. It was unified by an ideal, he remarked, that was something more important than mere mechanical and external things. The people were never divided; it was the militarists who were divided, because the sense of loyalty had gone with the passing of the monarchy.—Reuter.

London. Dr. H. H. Kung, 75th. descendant of the great Confucius, has recently arrived here to study English business methods. He is the head of a Chinese mission that is touring the world to find the best methods to employ in the economic development of China.

"In England we are to meet your labour leaders, your great commercial figures, and your captains of industry," explained Colonel Thomas Tehou, the technical expert of the mission. "I believe they will tell us much that will help China to prosperity."

"We are going to Manchester to study the cotton and woollen industries, because they are particularly applicable to China. At Gainsborough and Leicester we will see agricultural machinery being made."

"It is part of our task to discover how economic co-operation between Britain and China can best be arranged."—Reuter.

Livingstone.

A dog daringly defied a lion in broad daylight in a bush near Nkana township. It kept on barking at the mighty monster thus attracting the attention of two natives, who on going to investigate, were terrified to see the enraged lion spring at the dog, killing it instantly.

Before the natives could recover from the shock the lion rushed at them, catching one and ripping his leg open. The other boy threw a spear at the lion, luckily catching it in the throat, and then proceeded to make the best of his way up a convenient tree.

The lion disappeared into the bush bearing the spear in its neck.—Reuter.

Training £10,000 A Year Men

Chance Hazard In Success

HARVARD SELECTS LEADERS

The issue of a "manifesto" by leading British industrialists on the "Management Factor in Industry" is a reminder that the Harvard Graduate School of Business Administration completes this year its first quarter of a century's work for the training of American business men for high executive positions.

This foundation, comparable in scale to those of the English schools and colleges of Tudor days, was due to the munificent generosity of George F. Baker, a self-made multi-millionaire, who, having himself started as a grocer's errand-boy at two dollars a week, had the vision to see that there might be more expeditious ways of producing managing directors than by passing men through long years of unnecessary drudgery in which they tend, instead, to become narrow-minded departmental foremen.

It was Baker's view that industry and commerce, of all occupations, demand the highest qualities of character and intellect, that there is greater scope for creative statesmanship in a business career than in politics or the professions, and that "the man who can reduce the price of margarine by a penny a pound deserves as well of his fellows as he who subdues a rebellious province."

A few centuries ago shaving and surgery were one trade under the sign of the barber's pole, the law was a side-line for priests, and accountancy did not exist. To-day these professions are organised: they demand a humane education, long training and standards of conduct. The professions are the servants of industry and commerce, on which the very existence of most of us depends.

Bad Administration.

Should not the higher administration of business be put on an equal footing? Any business man who says that it can be satisfied with less than the Law, Medicine or the Services deprecates his own calling.

No one possessed of a more than superficial acquaintance with the direction of business can doubt that, questions of our industrial and commercial difficulties to-day are due to maladministration.

Consider the haphazard chances by which leaders of business have risen to the positions they occupy. Are they the brilliant, the industrious, or the virtuous of their school days? Not in many cases. Far more often mere luck, good golf, an ingratiating manner, or marriage with the chairman's daughter is the explanation of their success. Those who have helped them on would probably say they promoted the man they knew and, with that a second-rate man one knows is safer than a clever man of hearsay.

But what system has British business ever devised to discover its potential leaders? More than once one has heard the complaint: "There is room at the top for a man who can earn £10,000 a year, but I cannot find him."

The Harvard plan is first to select men who have proved their first-rate intelligence by taking University degrees in the highest honours.

They then for two years receive severely practical training—Finance, Statistics, Production and Distribution—in the problems with which they will have to deal, not in the first few years of their business careers, which will of necessity be spent in departmental routine, but many years later, when they have earned responsible positions. Before passing out they have to take the searching examination for the degree of Master of Business Administration. When they join their firms they start at the bottom, but as marked men, and no nepotism, no hard and fast rule of seniority, is allowed to stand in the way of their rapid promotion.

The system has long since proved itself. Records of the careers of graduates show that their average salary after ten years in business is about $2,000 a year, and at the age of forty, about $4,000. Each year has seen an increase in their number, and the demand for their services is nearly three times as great as the number available.

Idleness At Universities.

In England, so far, we have reached the position where some firms ask for University graduates, while others shun them. Both may be right, for University graduates may be better or worse than the average of all business recruits.

If the University man has made the most of his time, playing hard and working hard, the probability is that he will be better. If he has wasted his time—and nowhere can a man more easily acquire habits which unfit him for a serious career than at the older Universities—he can be the last man a business would wish to employ. But directors must learn to discriminate between one who takes first-class honours (to do which he will have to work harder than he is ever likely to again) and an idle fellow who scrapes a pass.

Yet good degrees are only the beginning. And a post-graduate business course is not the end. Management must be recognised as a profession with standards of proficiency and conduct.

What is needed is a British institute of management founded with the support of the best firms. This would correlate the activities of all bodies whose aim is the improvement of sectional aspects of business, such as the Industrial Psychology, the Industrial Welfare Society, the Association of Retail Distributors, the Incorporated Sales Managers' Association, the Advertising Association, and the Institute of Costs Accountants.

It would encourage and co-operate with these educational organisations which give training for management, would set up requirements for the granting of a diploma, arrange management conferences and meetings for its members, run an intelligence service to give information on all management questions, maintain a library, publish a journal, conduct an employment bureau, and generally organise contact and research among all those interested in management.

Rationalisation of Ideas.

Rationalisation, in so far as it means the amalgamation of businesses to work them more scientifically and more economically, has, up to the present, been a disappointment. For this there are two principal reasons.

Firstly, a shortage of men of sufficiently wide outlook to direct big units: a man may successfully control a £100,000 or even £1,000,000 business but he quits at a loss with a £10,000,000 one. Secondly, rationalisation of ideas and knowledge must precede amalgamation of plants and offices: English reserve, secrecy and suspicion among competitive firms and unwillingness to pool information for the common good must give way to co-operation and interchange of information.

But the supreme need of British business to-day is trained management.

News In Brief

Five cases of small-pox, one of diphtheria, and three of cerebrospinal fever were reported on Friday. The small-pox cases all occurred in Kowloon.

The Management of the Hong Kong Hotel advise that no dinner will be served in the Roof Garden tomorrow night owing to reservation of the premises for "The Schneider Trio Concert" as advertised.

The CALL of the OPEN ROAD

Hongkong Sunday Herald.

MOTORING SECTION

HONG KONG, MARCH 12, 1933.

THRILLS WITH THE ROVER TEN

THE CAR FOR THE CONNOISSEUR

OVERSEAS ADVANTAGES

London. NO motorist buying a car through 1933 who wants something a little different who can appreciate the finer points of motoring should make his final choice without fully testing on the road one of the new Rover models.

There is a wide range from which to choose—from the Ten to the Meteor Twenty, with prices ranging accordingly from £195 to £445.

This conviction became firmly established during an exhaustive week-end test of the Rover Ten Special coachbuilt saloon priced at £228.

Every month the Tens gain in popularity. Very fast are they overtaking in numbers of the "babies" on the English roads. It is the economy car par excellence for the overseas motorist.

So confident in the 1933 Rover is one London dealer, Henly's, the firm with perhaps the biggest car sales of any in the country, that he is offering free to any prospective customer a three days trial of the Rover Ten.

The week-end run by Reuter's motoring correspondent demonstrated clearly the fact that this offer was no stunt. It was good business. For no discriminating motorist could take on the road this new Rover without being enchanted with its many unique qualities.

Four large doors which open wide give easiest access to the seats which are of real leather. The line of the saloon is both graceful and efficient. Wire wheels, bumpers fore and aft, double windscreen wiper so that the passenger also has good visibility. These are points which come quickly to notice.

The writer was handed the ignition key. "Ah! that's good!" came the thought, "No fear of car-thieves with this Rover."

Fitting the key and turning on the ignition there came the first surprise. The engine started up on the instant—and automatically. The Lucas "Startix" ensured this and if the engine is stalled in traffic it re-starts automatically.

Attention then went to the free wheeling. A knob on the dashboard controls this luxury. You can drive the car with fixed gear, or by a turn of the knob run on the free-wheeling.

This gave a new experience in luxurious road travel, one so fascinating that in a year or two all manufacturers will have to follow the Rover lead.

No matter on which gear the car is running and at any speed, immediately the driver takes his foot off the accelerator pedal car free-wheels. You just float over the road—that is the actual sensation.

Incorporated with this optional and controlled free-wheeling is a special 4 speed gear box. Second and third gears being constantly in mesh. They are as silent as top gear.

Here is the last word in gear-changing. It is so simple that a child of eight or nine can sit by the driver's side and change into any gear up and down. There is no possibility of crashing either way. Finger-tip gear changing, absolutely fool-proof and at any speed. The clutch pedal is not used. It sounds almost like Alice-in-Wonderland. But it is true.

When coming to a very steep hill and desiring to brake on the engine we just turned over to fixed gear until we traversed the dangerous gradient. Once again a turn and we were free-wheeling—silently gliding down the remainder of the hill with the engine unheard just ticking over.

It is claimed that this free-wheeling device saves at least 15 per cent. in petrol consumption. It would also eliminate a lot of engine wear and tear.

On all models from the Rover Special Ten upwards the engine is mounted in silent and flexible rubber joints. In these mountings the engine is free to move. In some American cars this has been called floating power.

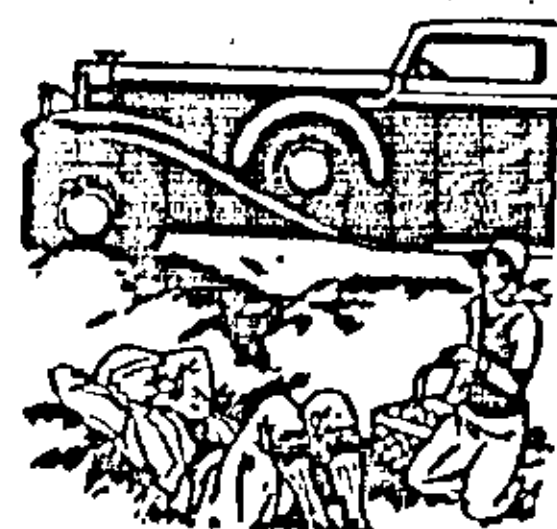

Rover's call it silent power and very definitely does this method of mounting the engine damp out the vibration to which one is accustomed when motoring.

Another refinement of outstanding note was the Marles-Weller steering. Beautifully light, admirably steady, it just gave one the impression that the car was guided with second sight and moved accurately to the inch just as soon as one had given the matter a thought.

HOG WORTH MORE THAN HUSBAND.

A farmer had a prize-winning hog, which he insured for $10,000. When crossing a railroad track both the hog and its owner were killed. The farmer's wife collected the $10,000 on the hog, but got nothing for her husband.

Coupled with this was the wonderful suspension. Semi-elliptic springs with hydraulic shock absorbers which almost entirely eliminated all consciousness of the road surface. One had the genuine big car feeling and was conscious rather of floating over the road.

Altogether delightful. For with these luxuries went hand-made coach work that never talked or squeaked, however pot-hole the surface.

Finally one marvelled at the braking power of the four-wheel Lockheed hydraulics. "What are your brakes like," inquired the discriminating passenger of one occasion.

"Just see" replied the driver standing on the brakes, "but hang on fast to your seat or you will go through the windscreen."

And the car came to a standstill almost within its own length.

Here is a car which needs all one's superlatives to describe it faithfully. Out on the road one found that the acceleration was excellent, hill-climbing robust.

Using the silent second and third gears adequately and with the split-second saving in time by not having to double de-clutch or even to use the clutch pedal at all one could in traffic get ahead of almost everything else on the streets. That naturally was a joyous experience.

Reaching the open road we put the speedometer needle up to 65 m.p.h. The car held that speed easily without the slightest fussing and with almost no more engine sound than when moving at thirty.

Which reminds one that a special air silencer is fitted.

Petrol consumption, according to the nature of the country and the amount of traffic stops encountered, averaged between 32 and 36 m.p.g. Oil consumption was negligible, approximately 2,000 miles to the gallon.

The engine is four cylinders, 63 m.m. bore by 95 m.m. stroke capacity 1,185 c.c. R.A.C. rating 9.8 h.p. The valves are overhead, operated by push rods from camshaft in crankcase, driven by chain from crankshaft.

The Special Ten is the quietest overhead valve engine that the writer has experienced in this class.

There is a very adequate 12 volta lighting system. The headlights were all that could be desired—so different from some of the cars on the road—and the dipping system was the only efficient one i.e., the off-side lamp turns off and simultaneously the on lamp dips downwards and inwards to the on-side kerb.

The wheelbase is 8ft. 8 inches, track 4ft. 3ins., ground clearance 7 1/2 inches, overall length 12ft. 11ins., overall width 5ft. 11in.

The dash board contains almost everything one could desire—clock, speedometer, air astringer, slow running adjustment, petrol gauge, ammeter, ignition switch, dash lights, oil gauge, driving mirror, ash trays, capacious glove boxes.

Overhead is the easily operated sunshine roof.

To repeat what was said: None should buy a new car this year without trying out one of the Rover models, and the Ten Special can be recommended with the greatest confidence.

It is the car for the connoisseur. —Reuter.

A Sign Of The Times

As a sign of the progress which British-built vehicles are making in South America, it is interesting to note that at a Street Parade of about twenty vehicles held recently in Buenos Aires in connection with the Sixth Annual Refrigeration Congress, no fewer than seven Leylands took part.

BRITISH CARS FOR NEW ZEALAND.

Wellington (N.Z.) Great Britain has supplied 85 per cent of New Zealand's Motor car imports and 86 per cent of the commercial vehicles, during the last ten months.

The total number of cars imported during this period were 2,200 of which 1,872 were British cars. The total number of commercial vehicles imported were 471, of which 405 were British.—Reuter.

PATEN RECORDS. Invention Of Interest To Motorists.

According to the Patent Records of Messrs. Hughes and Young, Patent Agents of 9, Warwick Court, London, the number of Patent Applications filed in November last totalled 3,759, bringing the total so far filed this year to 33,947, showing a decrease compared with the preceding months.

An invention of special interest to motorists is one for which a Patent has recently been accepted and has for its object to reduce the risk of five when a car becomes involved in a collision or turns over.

"STYLE," as applied to the Packard, has always meant something more.
Associated with it, logically and distinctively, is the other important word, "enduring"—a Packard characteristic for a third of a century.
So gradually and correctly has Packard style evolved—like the slow unfolding of a beautiful flower—it has never been at the mercy of that capricious mood which too often alienates to-morrow's style from that of to-day.

TAIKOO SECURE THEIR FIRST WIN OF SEASON

FIRST DIVISION.

League Leaders Beat St. Joseph's.

MOORE'S PASSING LESSON.

Pielding a depleted side, the Saints put up a creditable show against the Artillery at Happy valley in a game which produced eight goals, five of which were scored by the league leaders.

Mistakes in the defence cost the Saints two goals, and the halves were not inspiring, although Costa broke up many threatening attacks. The live wire of their forward line was B. Gosano, and when Sabhan could evade Collier, the left wing was always dangerous.

A lesson in passing was given by Moore who spoon-fed Seal with the result that all the danger came from the Gunners left. Gough led the line well, but was very wild in shooting. Bryant, besides scoring three goals, gave glimpses of his old form, being excellent with his head. Collier was the best of the halves and Allen, in his new role of covering his partner, showed what a clever player he is.

There was a thrilling opening to the game, for within a minute
the Saints had taken the lead.
Omar took the ball on the right and, drawing the defence, passed to Gosano who placed the ball well to the left of Combey.
The Artillery took up the attack and Bryant was just wide with a good shot. Gradually settling down, the Gunners kept play in the Saints half and levelled the scores after 15 minutes play. Seal centred and Bryant headed to Moore for the inter to score with a hard drive. A few minutes later the Gunners took the lead when Bryant's shot went in off the post. Gough went through twice, but each time he shot wildly over the bar.

From the restart the Gunners increased their lead when good work by Moore gave Bryant an easy chance to net the third. The next came when Souza passed weakly back to give Moore a chance with which he made no mistake.

The Saints lived up to a great run by Sabhan resulted in him sending in a grand shot which Combey could only partially stop.
The Saints forwards were extremely dangerous at this period, and they further reduced the lead when
B. Gosano finished off a good passing movement. Their success was again cleared weakly to the head of short lived, however, for Souza
Bryant who nodded the ball past Marques. The Saints seemed to lose heart after this and were well beaten in the closing minutes.

P. O. Cook lined out the following teams:

St. Joseph's:—Marques; Souza,
Lawrence, Victor, Costa, Fernandez,
Ali, K. M. Omar, D. Leonard, B.
Gosano and Sabhan.
Artillery:—Combey, Allen, Rogers,
Collier, Pardee, Harris, Wood, Bryant,
Gough, Moore and Seal.

Matthias Saves Point For Borderers.

LINCOLNS HELD TO DRAW.

The Borderers shared the points with the Lincolns at Sookunpoo yesterday, both sides scoring twice.
The Borderers were very poor in front of goal and missed many opportunities in the later stages of the game. Matthias, who was brought in as centre-forward, was never happy in his new position, and could not combine with his other forwards. The combination of Jones and Duncan, however, was the main sting in the Borderers' attack, and Dudley and Cork did well in frustrating their efforts to score. Cork, the Lincolns centre-half, had Matthias well in hand, and was always prominent in stopping the Borderers' attacks. Both defences were sound, although Williams and Heath, the opposing goalkeepers, were very uncertain when hard pressed. Furthermore, the Borderers were outstanding in distribution and tackling being brilliant.

The Borderers were the first to score. Duncan snapped up a pass from Underwood and sent in a centre right in front of the Lincolns goal-mouth which Matthias headed in. The Lincolns then brought in pressure to bear, and their persistence was rewarded when Ridley sent in the equaliser from a pass by Hosquard. Towards the close of the first-half the Lincolns scored the lead, Malpas sending in a shot which hit the cross-bar and rebounded into the net.

After the interval, the Borderers pressed hard and went very close, when Harris centred the ball in front of an open goal, Matthias just failing to get there in time. The Lincolns returned to the attack, and had hard lines on several occasions, but Matthias was clearing well and sent his forwards down the field, fortunes to send in a shot which the goalkeeper fumbled, and Matthias headed the ball into the net to place the Borderers once more on equal terms.

Borderers:—Williams; Mullane, Morrison, Morgan, Podmore, Underwood; Harris, Davis, Matthias, Jones and Duncan.

Lincolns:—Heath; Turner, Ash-ford, Dudley, Cork, Baldry, Harding, Malpas, Ridley and Hosquard.

Johnson Gives Police The Points.

KOWLOON DEFEATED.

The Police took full points from Kowloon by a goal to nil margin on the latter's ground, but the issue was in doubt right up to the final whistle.

For the first twenty minutes,
Kowloon had matters much their own way, Phillips narrowly missing from a free kick, and Hill shooting outside.

During a melee, Kowloon should have opened their account, when Webb struck the bottom of the upright with a good drive.

The forwards of both teams hung on to the ball too long, with the result that passes were continually being intercepted.

The Police now began to have their share of the game, and Moss brought Cook to his knees with a first ground shot.

After the interval, the Police attacked strongly, and T. Pilo was responsible for sending over some magnificent centres, which, however, proved fruitless.

Force forced a corner on the right,
and placed the flag back to Johnson,
who lobbed the ball goalwards.
Cook was apparently deceived by the flight of the ball. He jumped too late, and the ball passed just under the bar to give the Police the lead.

R. P. O. Darlington lined out the following teams:

Kowloon:—Cook; Gaulty, Walker,
Whitfield, Bliss, Wood; Hill, Webb,
Nellans, Phillips and Bickford.
Police:—Minty; Blackburn, Brittain,
Wheeler, Channing, Pilo (C); Pile (T),
Johnston, Moss, Stephens and Dowman.

Naval Offensive In Second Half.

MARQUES WELL TESTED.

The Navy easily accounted for the Recreio at King's Park
by 5 goals to 2.

The Navy had much the better of the encounter and were never fully extended, Shirras putting in some very nice work at centre-half and being ably backed by his partners and backs.

The score, however, reflected no discredit on Marques, the Re-creio goalkeeper, who played a very sound game, and did well to keep the score to only five. The forwards of both teams played well together, but the Navy defence kept Santos and his men well subdued.

Davis opened the scoring for the Navy, soon after the commencement. A nice combining movement gave the Recreio the equaliser, Santos finishing the movement with a shot which had Botterill well beaten.

After the interval play was of a more even nature, the Recreio forwards striving desperately hard to secure the lead, but the opposing defence held out and the Navy forwards once more took the upper hand. McPhee sending them ahead after a scrimmage round the Recreio goalmouth.
The Recreio equalised when Cas-tilho beat Botterill with a spot from near the corner flag. The Navy took the lead with a few minutes, however, McPhee scoring, and almost immediately after he added the fourth goal.
Davis placed the issue beyond doubt when he added the fifth point.

Navy:—Botterill; Davey, Powell,
Parkins, Shirras, Goodrich, Warren,
Barrett, Hudson, Davis and McPhee.

Recreio:—Marques; Guterres, Del-
gado, Oliveira, Figueiredo, Mackintosh;
Castilho, Gomes, F. Santos, J. Santos
and Laurel.

SECOND DIVISION.

Nine Kowloon Men Play Pluckily.

Kowloon fought pluckily with nine men against Taung Tsin and held out until the last few minutes, when they lost by the odd goal in three. Davies, in goal, played a great game, saving his side from a much heavier defeat.

Kowloon opened the scoring from the kick-off, G. White netting a good goal, and their depleted side more than held their own. After half an hour's play Taung Tsin equalised through Fung Hoi-hing, who netted from a goalmouth
scramble.

In the second half the Chinese enjoyed most of the play, but it was not until five minutes before the final whistle that Fung Hoi-hing scored the winning goal.

Taung Tsin:—Chow Koon-ping; Wong Hoi-lai, Ip Wai-lam, Tan Kwaising, Lam Yuk-po, Ma Pak-mun, Wong Shik-sai, Mok Yiu-san, Lai Kwok-sang, Fung Hoi-hing and Tso Shui-yu.

Kowloon:—Davies; Staveley, Willis;
Tillery; Earle, White V., Fisher,
White G. and Smith.

Athletic Dominate Eastern.

The Athletic experienced little difficulty in gathering a further two points at the expense of Eastern and could have won by a much greater margin than four clear goals.

The Athletic were a long time getting into their stride. Loo Chai-wan opened the scoring and a few minutes later Shek Pui-tim added another.

After the interval the Athletic added two further goals through Loo Chai-wan and Yung Kan-po.

Athletic:—Liu Kam-ming; Tang Wong, Lee Hai-cheng; Wong Wing-lui, Ho Chee-wing, Loo Chee-yin; Loo Chai-wan, Shek Pui-tim, Wong Sik-bing, Yung Kan-po and Fung King-yin.

Eastern:—See Po-wan; Li Ting-tan,
Luk Fook-wa; Ho Chin-yung, Ng
Tee-ku, Lueng Lok-chai; Lam Hai-man,
Chai Hoi-kai, Lam Bing-tung, Chueng
Fai and Li Ti-yin.

Ng Po-kui Scores Four Times.

South China secured both points from the Artillery at Sookunpoo yesterday by the comfortable margine of 5 goals to 1.

The Artillery were the first to open the scoring Edmunds going through on his own to send the ball into the back of the net. South
China, however, equalised when Ng Po-kui tapped the ball into an open net. South China went ahead a few minutes later, when Ng Po-kui headed in another goal from a pass by Chan Wing-kau.

After the resumption, Ng Po-kui completed the "hat-trick," and a fourth goal was added by To Waihing through a mis-understanding between the Artillery backs. Ng

Third Division.

BOTELHO MISSES PENALTY.

The Borderers defeated the Recreio on the Chatham Road
Ground by four clear goals.

At half-time, the score was nil,
shot was blank, though Botelho should have scored when the Recreio were awarded a penalty.
In the second half, however, the Borderers settled down, and goals were obtained by Johns, Hazlewood, Nelson and Williams.

Recreio:—Botelho; Guterres, Del-
gado, Oliveira, Figueiredo, Mackintosh;
Castilho, Gomes, F. Santos, J. Santos
and Laurel.

Borderers:—Johns, Hazlewood, Nelson and Williams.

TAIKOO'S FIRST WIN.

Taikoo registered their first win of the season when they beat the Signals by 3 goals to 1.

Taikoo led at the interval by a goal scored by Wu Kam-sing, but Convey levelled the scores in the second half. The Chinese took the lead when Wu Kam-sing scored from a penalty and To Wing-chen added the third.

GOOD RADIO CUSTODIAN.

At Chatham Road the R.A.S.C. easily overcame the Radio, though the score of one goal to nil, scored by Hay, does not give that impression.

Marvellous goalkeeper by the Radio goalkeeper was the feature of the match, Sands, of the R.A.S.C., having many difficult shots saved.

IRON SHOT FROM THE SKY.

A lump of sky iron, weighing 25lbs., can now be seen at the Natural History Museum at South Kensington, London. It was picked up by Mr. St. John Pilby in the midst of the Southern Arabian desert and is believed to be part of a bombardment by meteorites, possibly thousands of years ago. The iron masses crashed so violently that they splashed the desert in the shapes of "Craters." — S. & G.

Miss H. D. Sawyer Attacked.

While walking along Jordan Road, at noon yesterday, Miss H. D. Sawyer, head-mistress of the Diocesan Girls School, had her handbag snatched from her by a Chinese who had approached her from behind. The handbag contained $50.

Mrs. Sawyer struggled with the man and cried for help. In the struggle the man dropped the handbag, and as the alarm had been given he made off down Chai Wo Street and disappeared.

PEKING STATES WAR IS OVER

Another Puppet Governor.

Changchun, Yesterday.
General Chang Hsi-peng, chief of the puppet ruler of Manchukuo, has accepted the offer of the Governorship of Jehol vice marshal Tang Yu-lin, "Who has been dismissed by the Manchukuo Government as a traitor."—Reuter.

Mr. T. V. Soong In Shanghai.

Shanghai, Yesterday.
Mr. T. V. Soong suddenly arrived here this afternoon by air. His presence in Shanghai was only discovered several hours after his arrival.—Reuter.

Telegram From Jehol Citizens.

Nanking, Yesterday.
The official newspaper, the "Central Daily News" this morning gave prominence to a telegram from the Chinese populace of Jehol, in which the Jehol people deplored that, in spite of the fact the Chinese troops outnumbered the Japanese invading force, the Chinese troops offered no resistance, thereby enabling the Japanese troops to occupy the Province without resistance.

The telegram, however, states that though the troops have deserted the Province, the people of Jehol will continue resistance and refuse to accept Japanese control.

The message concludes with an urgent appeal to the Central Government to immediately despatch troops to Jehol for the recovery of the province from the Japanese.

The message, it is alleged, was despatched from the local governments of the Chaoyang and Ling-yuan districts.—Reuter.

Geneva Seeks To Define The Word Aggressor.

Geneva, March 10.
The Political Commission of the Disarmament Conference to-day considered the Russian proposal for a definition of Aggressor. The Chinese delegate thought that the question of application of Article XVI should also be examined and said that the importance of the question raised was to emphasize the present situation in the Far East.

He approved of the Soviet plan and regretted that no solution had existed for the problem of a state of war without declaration. If Reuter.

By 9.30 p.m. the fire was under control, but engines continued to pump water into the building for a considerable time.

At one period it was thought that the sparks might ignite the Government Bonded Warehouse at the rear of Messrs. Ruttenberg's premises, where large quantities of wine and spirits are stored, but fortunately this danger was averted.

Hoses were laid down to the sea, but since the pressure of water from the mains was sufficient to supply the engines which were stationed in Queen's Road, Des Voeux Road and Ice House Street, they were not brought into use.

Crowd Gathers.
Hundreds of spectators thronged the streets in the vicinity of the blaze, but police officers kept clear the alleyway which runs down from Queen's Road to Des Voeux Road.

The building involved is one of the oldest structures in the Central District, and is sandwiched between the rear of the St. Francis Hotel and the rear of the Hong Kong Electric Company's show-rooms which face Des Voeux Road. Exchange Building is separated from the block by a narrow alleyway, while an extension of the damaged block fronts Ice House Street.

The ground floor is completely occupied by the meter testing department of the Hong Kong Electric Company. The latter mentioned premises were badly damaged by water, and many valuable pieces of testing apparatus and meters are thought to be irreparably damaged.

Many Tenants

Other offices damaged by fire and water include Messrs. Xavier Bros., Ltd., Exporters, Messrs. L. Wolf.

there is a solution to the problem. China would not be suffering as she is at present. The Japanese delegate said that the definition of Aggressor would always involve a difficult enquiry in which it is difficult to take account of all problems relating to the dispute and would ask that a just formula should be sought. Inferred. Police are guarding the premises.
